

The MEDALLION

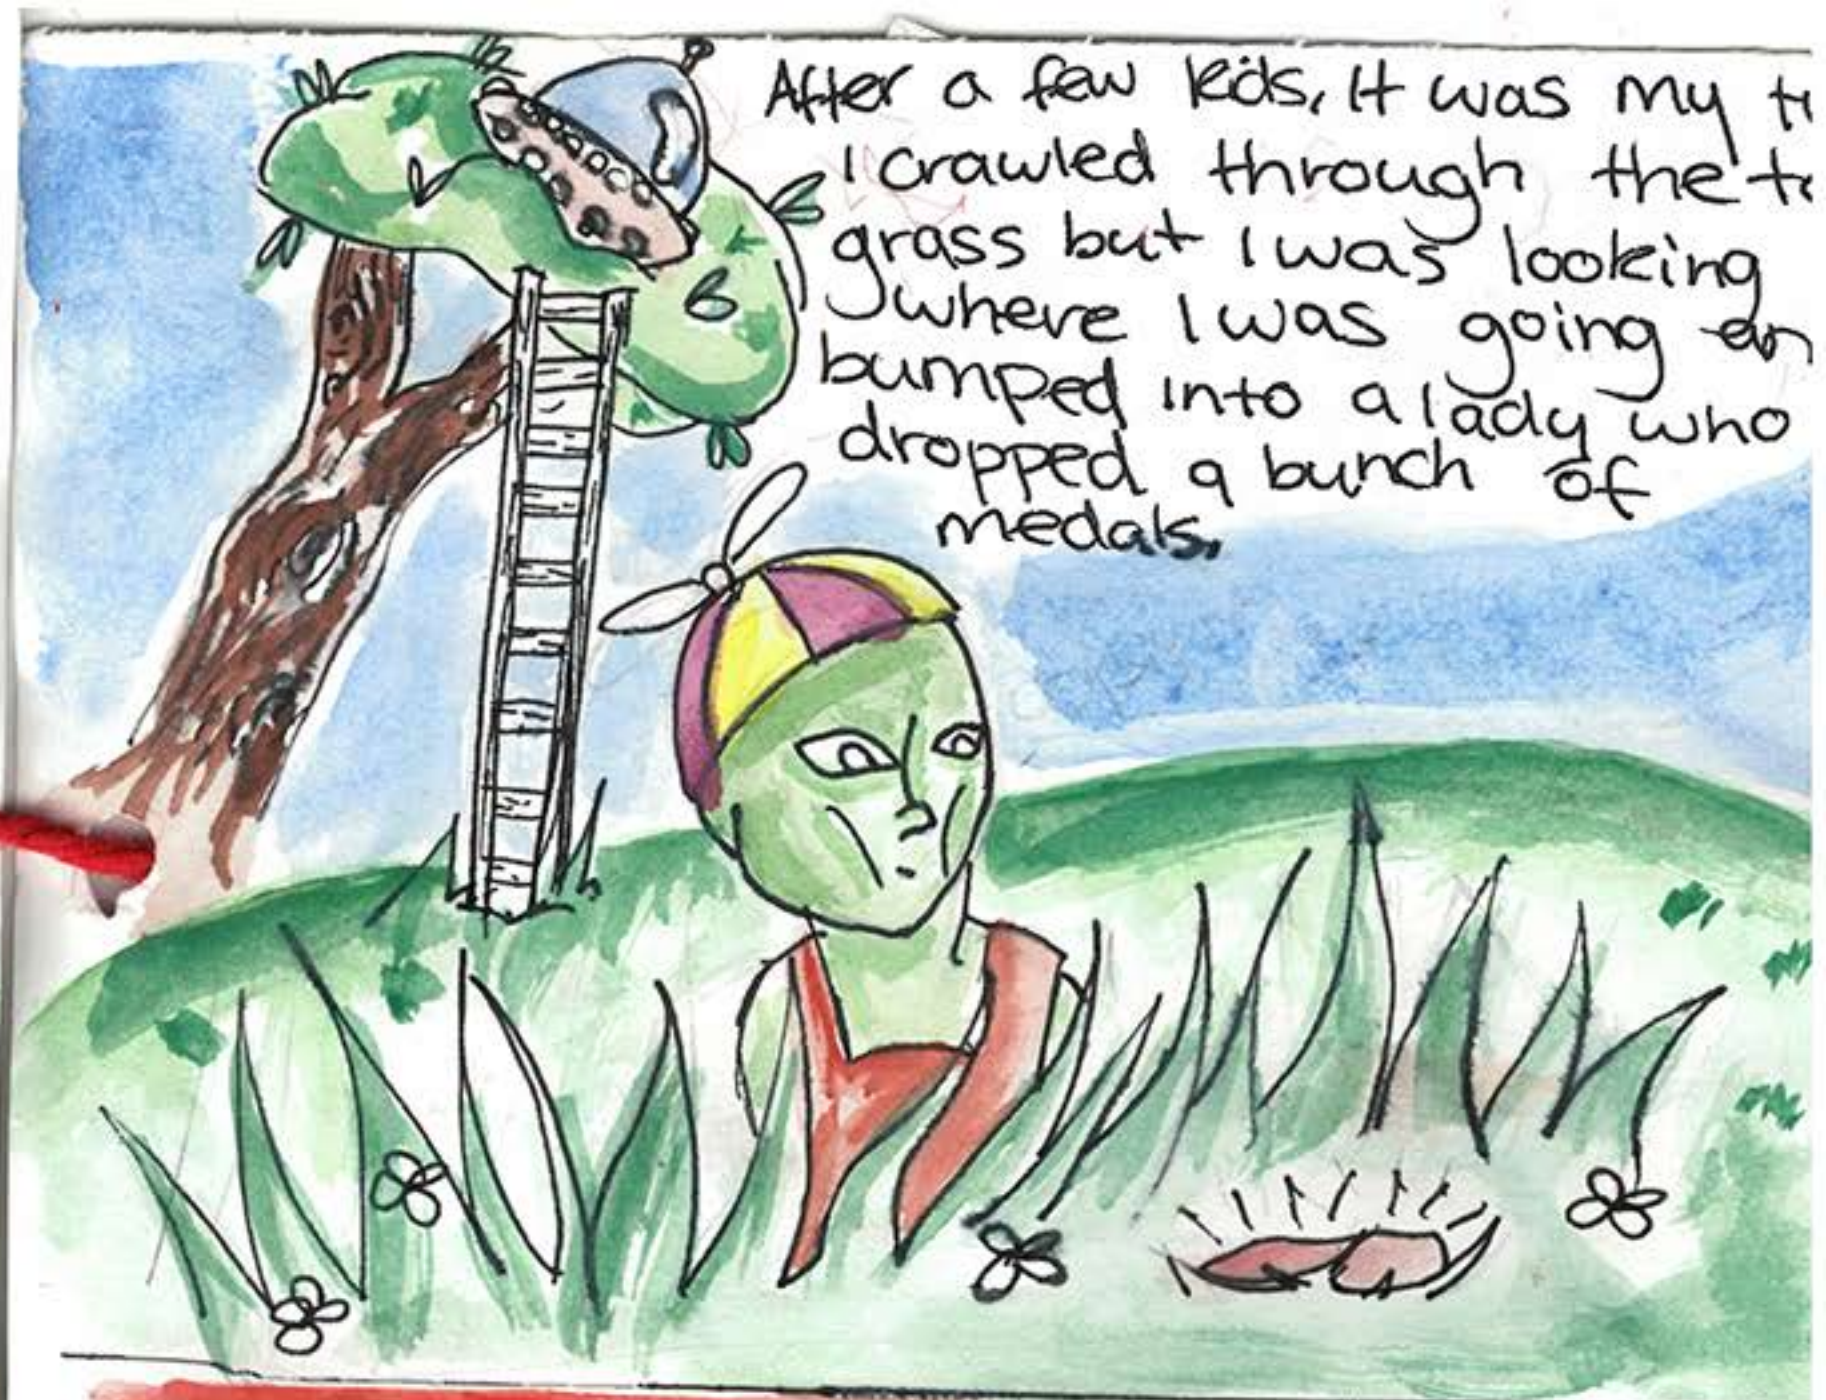

by becky simpson

Stayed in the back of the ship, I felt bad because I didn't wave my mum goodbye, I just ignored her because I was so annoyed.

Something went wrong with the landing and we ended up in a tree, we had to sit for about 10 minutes because the competition hadn't finished yet.

After a few kids, it was my turn. I crawled through the grass but I was looking for where I was going and bumped into a lady who dropped a bunch of medals.

"Sorry! Sorry!" I shouted, she turned around and smiled at me, I was surprised. She said she had been waiting for an alien like me. She showed me a strange shaped medal that was kept in a safty dome.

"Take it." she said. "You're the one that doesn't want to steal so we are giving it to you." I just stared at

I was told that there were 2 madalions and the other was going in a museum (whatever that was)

all the other kids were very impressed.

My whole family were very happy
and I never had to steal again.
